Drama & Film Appreciation

Throughout the term, students will be able to explore how drama performances are produced. Students will learn script-writing and acting, and they will also be able to appreciate drama performances. It is expected that students will learn to appreciate performing arts through acquiring both front-stage and back-stage knowledge. Apart from drama, students will watch movies and learn how to write film critiques. Participating students will need to keep a journal to write reflections on a regular basis. This course is suitable for students who enjoy creative writing, acting and performing arts.
